FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

DOMESTIC ATTORNEY DOROTHY K. PHILLIPS FEATURED ON FOX 29'S GOOD DAY LIVE

PHILADELPHIA – July 22, 2004 – Dorothy K. Phillips & Associates, LLC founder and Managing Partner Dorothy K. Phillips was recently featured on Fox 29 Philadelphia's Good Day Live.

Phillips, a domestic relations attorney focusing on a variety of family law issues, including divorce, custody, child support, equitable distribution and abuse, discussed the importance of prenuptial agreements, especially for those getting remarried. During the segment, Phillips spoke on how the prenuptial or premarital agreement can help to protect funds that either spouse may have saved prior to the marriage. Having this agreement drawn up before the wedding saves the couple time, emotional trauma and of course, money if the marriage happens to end in divorce.

Without the prenup, divorcing couples who disagree over equitable distribution may have their assets distributed for them by the court. According to Phillips, couples who are not protected by these agreements are allowing their financial future to be determined by the court in the event that the marriage does fail.

Says Phillips, "Although many couples might not find signing documents such as prenuptial agreements to be very romantic, if either you or your fiancé has been divorced, then you realize how valuable a premarital agreement can be."

Phillips, who focuses her practice on Domestic Relations Law, is founder and managing Partner of Dorothy K. Phillips & Associates, LLC.
